

University Hospitals Bristol Referral Pathway for Pre-existing Cardiac Disease in Pregnancy

Ideally all women with pre-existing cardiac disease should have had pre-pregnancy assessment. If not, and the condition is high, or very high risk (see regional referral guidelines for classification), urgent referral to the Obstetric Medicine team is required. Medical information held by the GP is invaluable in these cases, therefore information or referral must be from the GP or Hospital Doctor treating the condition.

